

The Soloist – Vocabulary for the Final Test

Part One (pp. 3-10)

- 1-2. (P. 3) I can't get the image out of my head, this odd picture of grubby refinement.
 - grubby (adj.) = dirty, messy
 - refinement (n) = elegance
3. (P. 3) His playing is a little scratchy and tentative.
 - tentative (adj.) = unsure or uncertain
4. (P. 3) I gaze at the tops of buildings adorned with....
 - adorned (adj.) = decorated
5. (P. 4) He's still suspicious of me, suspicious of everything around him....
 - suspicious (adj.) = mistrustful, wary, leery
6. (P. 4) He says he was trying to remember a Tchaikovsky piece he once knew quite well, but now it is as elusive as the meaning of a dream.
 - elusive (adj.) = hard to capture, understand, or remember
7. (P. 6) I tell him I doubt that it's the late cellist, who died in 1987.
 - late (adj.) = recently deceased
8. (P. 7) "All I want to do is play music, and the crisis I'm having is right here."
 - crisis (n) = an emotionally stressful event or traumatic change in a person's life
9. (P. 9) The antidote for such fear and loathing is, of course, a good story.
 - antidote (n) = remedy or cure
10. (P. 10) Juilliard in Manhattan is one of the elite music schools in the world....
 - elite (adj.) = best, first-class
11. (P. 10) A bum with a violin, living out of a shopping cart and worshipping a Beethoven statue, turns out to be a Juilliard alum.
 - alum (n) = a person who is a graduate of or a former student of a specific school, college, or univ.

Part Two (pp. 10-20)

12. (Pp. 10-11) It's late in the day in New York and no one at Juilliard seems prepared to drop everything and investigate my query.
 - query (n) = a question; an inquiry
- 13-14. (P. 11) If the poor soul is that delusional, he's even sicker than I thought. Is it dementia?
 - delusional (adj.) = suffering from false beliefs
 - dementia (n) = memory loss; madness; insanity
15. (P. 13) When I tell him how impressed I am that he studied at Juilliard, he's all modesty.
 - modesty (n) = humility; shyness
16. (P. 14) The staff at Motter's was always amazed at how nimbly Nathaniel switched from one instrument to another.
 - nimbly (adv.) = quickly and gracefully

17. (P. 15) It was the fall semester of 1972, his third year at Juilliard, and Nathaniel had been tormented by months of confusion, anxiety and hallucinations.

- hallucination (n) = a sensory experience of something that does not exist; a delusion

18. (P. 17) Was he a child prodigy? Were his mother and father musicians or aficionados who filled the house with the sounds of Beethoven...?

- prodigy (n) = a person with extraordinary talents or abilities

19. (P. 19) Nathaniel blew off assignments and had trouble focusing....

- blow off (v) = to skip or ignore something

20. (P. 19) That combination of flattery and faith got Nathaniel's attention.

- flattery (n) = excessive praise (sometimes insincere praise)

21-22. (P. 19) In his late teens, Nathaniel announced with equal parts arrogance and admiration that he wanted to be like Mr. Barnoff and play in a major orchestra.

- arrogance (n) = a display of pride, superiority, or self-importance
- admiration (n) = a feeling of wonder, pleasure, or approval

23. (P. 19) Barnoff was reluctant to set him [Nathaniel] up for disappointment.

- reluctant (adj.) = unwilling; hesitant

24. (P. 20) Nathaniel was often in his cocoon at the Settlement school.

- cocoon (n) = a place that provides protection and/or isolation

25. (P. 20) "It's an absolute dream here, and I notice that everyone is smiling. The sun is out all day, and the nights are cool and serene."

- serene (adj.) = calm; peaceful; tranquil

26. (P. 20) His eyes are closed, and in his shuttered world there is order, logic, sanity, sweet relief. If only for a while.

- sanity (n) = soundness of mind; rationality; reasonableness

Part Three (pp. 140-48)

27. (P. 140) Patience is no doubt a wonderful virtue, but mendacity has its advantages as well.

- mendacity (n) = untruthfulness

28. (P. 140) And to seduce him into giving it a try, I now have the perfect bait.

- bait (n) = an enticement or temptation

29. (P. 141) Nathaniel squirms.

- squirm (v) = to wriggle your body, possibly because you feel humiliated or embarrassed

30. (P. 141) "I just don't think Mr. Snyder would go for it," I say, raising my voice a bit louder than necessary to accentuate the noise factor Mr. Snyder would be up against.

- accentuate (v) = to stress or emphasize something

31. (P. 142) "It's not my apartment," he insists, copping an attitude.

- cop an attitude (verb phrase) = to be aggressive, disrespectful, etc.

32. (P. 142) I'm sorry, but Mollie Lowery and Mary Scullion were nuns, and I don't have their fortitude.

- fortitude (n) = mental or emotional strength that allows one to endure pain or adversity with courage

33-37. (P. 143) He endlessly chastises fellow clients, lets loose bigoted tirades and maligns [Stuart] Robinson for offering safe harbor to those who cuss, smoke or otherwise violate his sense of civility.

- bigot (n) = a person who is devoted to his own group, race, religion, etc. and is intolerant of others
- tirade (n) = an angry or violent speech
- malign (v) = to make evil, harmful, or false statements about someone
- cuss (v) = to curse, swear, or use profanity
- civility (n) = courtesy; politeness

38. (P. 143) ...and he goes along with the idea of using lessons from Pete Snyder as an enticement to get Nathaniel into the apartment.

- entice (v) = to lure; to tempt

39-41. (P. 145) The patio is an oasis of trees and benches, a manicured lawn and bougainvillea cascading over a wooden arbor.

- oasis (n) = a pleasant area; a safe area
- manicured (adj.) = clipped or trimmed evenly or closely
- cascade (v) = to fall in a way that is like a waterfall

42. (P. 146) The few people who traipse through the garden are clients....

- traipse (v) = to walk; to walk aimlessly

43. (P. 146) Judging by Nathaniel's reaction, he's not quite as jazzed as I am.

- jazzed (adj.) = excited or happy

44. (P. 146) I spot an empty bench and tell him it looks like a nice place to serenade passersby.

- serenade (v) = to sing and/or play music for someone

45. (P. 147) He pivots, grunts and pushes, and by divine intervention, the cart squeezes into the room.

- divine intervention (n) = the help of God; a miracle

Part Four (pp. 212-221)

46. (P. 212) And I'd be miserable working as a state bureaucrat, she insists.

- bureaucrat (n) = someone who works in or controls a bureaucracy; the term "bureaucrat" is often used negatively to describe a petty, narrow-minded person

47-48. (P. 213) After a thrilling run of thirty years, did I want to spend the rest of my career with a scowl, reminiscing about the good old days?

- scowl (n) = a look of anger or disapproval
- reminisce (v) = to recall past events, experiences, etc.

49-50. (P. 220) He quickly makes himself at home, acting like an eccentric and gabby uncle who's dropped by after a long absence.

- eccentric (adj.) = strange; weird; bizarre
- gabby (adj.) = talkative

51-52. (P. 221) In Nathaniel's high-anxiety monologue, she [Steve's wife] hears her brother's voice – the brother she thinks might be bipolar, though he's never been diagnosed as such.

- monologue (n) = a long speech made by one person, often monopolizing a conversation
- bipolar (adj.) = a psychiatric disorder marked by alternating episodes of mania and depression